Spring 2021 Early Alert

Early Alert for all 14-week undergraduate courses will take place March 2-8.

(NOTE: This semester a pilot Early Alert is also being conducted for 7-week developmental math courses during the third week of the first and second 7-week sessions.)

Early Alert is a retention tool in that it helps to facilitate communication between instructors and students to promote student success. As a Faculty Advisor it is important to understand that an Early Alert is not a grade, but a warning. No grades are needed to provide an Early Alert. It is simply a way for an instructor to let a student know that what they are doing/not doing may put them at risk to fail the class.

Tell your advisees about Early Alert, including when and how they will receive alerts and most importantly why. Help your advisees understand that receiving an alert is important feedback from their instructor on their progress so far. Encourage students who receive an alert to follow up with the instructor for more information. When you see Early Alerts, called Progress Reports, in Navigate for your advisees take the opportunity to check-in with the student about the challenges they are having in the course.

NEW Registration Hold

Starting with registration for Fall 2021 students will see two new To Do List items in their Titan Web Student Center. One will be for the Financial Agreement for Student Accounts and students will have a hold placed on their account until the Financial Agreement has been completed. The Financial Agreement describes the student responsibility for their student account. It also makes available a payment plan for each semester. Once the Financial Agreement is complete, the hold will be removed. For questions regarding the Financial Agreement, please contact Student Accounts by email at sa@uwosh.edu or 920-424-1332.

The other new to do list item is Registration Information. This to do list item will ensure we have the most up to date contact and program information for students. There is not a hold associated with this To Do List item. For questions regarding the Registration Information to do list item, please contact the Registrar's Office by email at twregistration@uwosh.edu or 920-424-3454.

Decoupling of Interim begins Fall 2021

Starting in Fall 2021, Interim will no longer be part of the semester. UW Oshkosh will have 14-week Fall and Spring terms, as well as, new 3-week terms. The new 3-week terms will be called J-Term (formerly the fall interim) and May-Term (formerly the spring interim). Credits taken during J-Term and May-term are not part of the Fall or Spring term for full-time credit load, tuition, or financial aid purposes. Students will search for and enroll in the J- and May-terms separate from the 14-week terms in TitanWeb, but can enroll on the same date they are eligible to register for the Fall/Spring terms.
