Objectives

All of humanity ultimately relies on the natural environment for its welfare, yet problems continually arise from interactions between humans and the environment. This lab is designed to provide activities to further explore a wide variety of environmental issues covered in Biology 104 lecture. We will be going on field trips, doing lab exercises, watching films, and discussing environmental issues to gain a better understanding and appreciation of the interconnections between human actions and the natural environment. By the end of the semester you should recognize the significance of maintaining a clean and healthy natural environment and appreciate the roles of biodiversity in maintaining the health of this planet.

Required Materials

- Davis-Foust, Fall 2013, Biology 104 Laboratory Manual.
- Printouts from D2L. Contact me immediately if you have any trouble downloading the materials.

Policies and Expectations

- Plan for a 3 hour class. It is your responsibility to be prepared for and attend each class. Notify me as soon as possible if you plan to be absent for any reason.
- Email and D2L will be used throughout the term. Emails constitute legal, official University communication. Not checking your email is not an excuse for performance problems in the class. Contact Academic Computing or any Campus Computer Lab supervisor for assistance with email and D2L.
- As a courtesy to others - and to yourself - please turn off all electronic distractions during class. 10 points will be deducted from your final grade each time your cell phone goes off or you are caught using your phone without permission.
- No food or drink is permitted in the lab.
- Arrangements for any special need must be made in advance, except in the case of unforeseen circumstances. Late assignments will be accepted if arrangements were made in advance, but with a point reduction of 10% per day.
- Writing assignments are expected to be of the highest quality. Anything turned in that is in shorthand or illegible will be given a 0 until you hand in a legitimate version (at which point penalties for handing in late work will apply).
- Do not email me any assignments without obtaining permission first.
- Your work area must be clean before you leave.

Academic Integrity

Academic dishonesty will not be tolerated. If you decide to engage in academic misconduct you will be subject to the Student Academic Disciplinary Procedures as outlined in the Student Disciplinary Code (<http://www.uwosh.edu/dean>). Under Chapter UWS 14 (Student Academic Disciplinary Procedures), “academic misconduct” means an act in which a student (UWS 14.03):

- a) seeks to claim credit for the work or efforts of another without authorization or citation;
- b) uses unauthorized materials or fabricated data in any academic exercise;
- c) forges or falsifies academic documents or records;
- d) intentionally impedes or damages the academic work of others;
- e) engages in conduct aimed at making a false representation of a student's academic performance; or
- f) assists other students in any of these acts.

Disabilities

Students who have physical or learning disabilities that wish to request academic adjustments should notify the Disabilities Office so that appropriate accommodations can be made. For more information contact the Counseling Center or Disabilities Services (424-2404).

Grading

Quizzes (4).....100 pts Assignments (3).....60 pts Attendance & Participation.....40 pts

Quizzes - Quizzes will primarily be in the format of short answer/essay, so study accordingly. If you will miss a class due to a University-sponsored activity (e.g. athletics contest), your coach should have provided you with a letter. Bring a copy of that letter to permit a make-up quiz. If you miss a quiz for any other University-accepted reason (e.g. illness or bereavement), go to the Dean of Students Office in Dempsey Hall, obtain a written excuse, and bring the written excuse to permit a make-up. Absolutely NO late quizzes will be scheduled for reasons of holiday or end-of-term travel.

Assignments – There will be 4 assignments. You may chose to skip one or have your lowest score will be dropped. Grades will be based on clarity and effectiveness in communicating main ideas. Grammar and spelling count! All assignments are due at the beginning of class and will be considered late if turned in at a later point.

Attendance and Participation - Attendance is worth 20 points. You lose 5 points for each unexcused absence. Participation is also worth 20 points. You can earn up to 5 points per week. To obtain participation points, you should:

1. participate in class discussions,
2. write thoughtful thank you letters to guest speakers (specific directions will be posted on how to submit them),
3. locate recent (<5 years) articles and explain them during appropriate class discussions. To receive credit, a hard copy of the article needs to be submitted with your name on it (just print the first 5 pages if it exceeds this). If you prefer written communication, you may submit a review and reflection of it in a one page, typed, double spaced paper along with the original article.

Please be critical of all information that is available to you. The abundance and fast flow of digital information is a powerful, but also dangerous, tool. Don't take anything for face value – do your research – and don't be afraid to play devil's advocate.

The following rubric is a rough outline of the qualities you will be graded on for attendance and participation.

Exemplary (90-100%)	Perfect attendance/one excused absence, never tardy, maintains a positive attitude, team player, is engaged in environmental topics inside and outside of class, encourages others, respects others, is critical of class material, always alert
Good (80-90%)	One or two excused absences, seldom tardy, maintains a positive attitude, usually a team player, participates in most discussions, respects others, is critical of the material, usually alert
Average (60-80%)	One or two excused absences/one unexcused absence, seldom tardy, usually has a positive attitude, sometimes participates in discussions, respects others, occasionally daydreams
Below Average (50-60%)	Two or more unexcused absences, frequently tardy, complains, does not typically participate in discussions, respects others, sometimes falls asleep
Poor (below 50%)	Three or more unexcused absences, frequently tardy, complains and complains, prevents others from learning, almost never participates in discussions, disrespectful of others, does not complete assigned work, snores loudly
