

Information Systems help businesses compete in a global environment by helping management utilize the power of technology to make decisions and run business operations efficiently. With the exponential growth in Information Technology, increased demand for information and communications, and global impact of the Internet; Information Systems have become the cornerstones of business.

UW Oshkosh Information Systems Facts

- There are more IS internships available than there are students available to fill them
- Two state-of-the-art labs available for student use: A 38-seat teaching lab featuring dual-boot iMacs and a small Media Lab featuring 27" iMacs
- Extremely high job placement upon graduation
- One-on-one engagement between students and faculty

Information Systems Classes

- Business Application Development
- Agile Application Development in C#
- Database Systems
- Network and Data Communications
- Mobile Application Development
- Business Application Development
- Systems Analysis and Design

Characteristics

- Reliable
- Investigative
- Open-minded
- Detail-Oriented
- Adaptable
- Team Player
- Multi-tasker

Common Job Titles

- Applications Engineer
- Business Intelligence Analyst
- Data Processing Manager
- EDP Specialist
- IT Developing Manager
- .NET Developer
- Network Designer
- Security Specialist

Annual Starting Salary

Regional: $52,980

National: $59,622

Average Hourly Intern Wage

$15.00

Information Systems Club (IS)

The IS Club is a gathering of individuals with an interest in learning about Information Technology. This club is a way for Information Systems majors at the University of Wisconsin Oshkosh to learn about new opportunities within the college, and within the community. The club provides tutoring and advising services to students that have an interest in technology or are interested in the major.

Featured Employers

College of Business