

Technology and Engineering Education Major
 Department of Teaching and Learning
 College of Education and Human Services
 University of Wisconsin Oshkosh

Degree: Bachelor of Science in Education
Licensure: Early Childhood through Adolescence (EC-A)
Ages: Birth to age 21 | Grades: PK to 12

The Technology and Engineering Education major leads to a Bachelor of Science in Education degree with recommendation to the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction for a license to teach Technology and Engineering Education (licensure code 1220) in Wisconsin. Students complete a traditional 120 credit undergraduate Bachelor of Education in Science degree program (BSE). Students also earn the Associate of Applied Science degree from Fox Valley Technical College.

Students enroll at FVTC for the first two years and complete general education courses and specific technology content courses in construction, transportation, engineering/manufacturing, and communication/information technology (see planning sheets). Students transfer to UW Oshkosh in year three to complete education courses and their remaining general education courses. The partnership between FVTC and UW Oshkosh is unique in that it merges the strengths and expertise from two different institutions into one 4-year BSE degree.

Financial Aid: Financial Aid is requested for and applied to the institution where the student is taking the largest number of credits - so FVTC for years one and two and UW Oshkosh for years three and four. Students pay the tuition and fees required at each institution. Student wishing to enroll in classes at both institutions in the same semester can do so but must contact the Financial Aid Office for details on how to do so.

Housing: Students can live in the dorms at UW Oshkosh while taking classes at FVTC.
