

Technology and Engineering Education Major
 Bachelor of Science in Education degree
 University of Wisconsin Oshkosh and Fox Valley Technical College

The Technology and Engineering Education major leads to a Bachelor of Science in Education degree with recommendation to the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction for a license to teach Technology and Engineering Education (licensure code 1220) in Wisconsin. Students complete a traditional 120 credit undergraduate Bachelor of Education in Science degree program (BSE). Students also earn the Associate of Applied Science degree from Fox Valley Technical College.

Students enroll at FVTC for the first two years and complete general education courses and specific technology content courses in construction, transportation, engineering/manufacturing, and communication/information technology (see planning sheets). Students transfer to UW Oshkosh in year three to complete education courses and their remaining general education courses. The partnership between FVTC and UW Oshkosh is unique in that it merges the strengths and expertise from two different institutions into one 4-year BSE degree.
