

THESIS TITLE, UPPERCASE, CENTERED, BOLDED,
ALL CAPS, SINGLE-SPACED, MAXIMUM 13 WORDS

By Student's Name

(Name should be written exactly the same as on the Title Page)

The Abstract is a summary of the entire Thesis. It should be specific enough to provide insight into the value of the student's project. The Abstract should contain the following; (a) a statement of the problem, (b) a description of the materials and methods, and (c) a summary of the conclusions.

The margins for the Abstract are 1.5 inches left and top, and one inch right and bottom. The Abstract is single-spaced, and the length should be kept to one page. If a second page is necessary for the Abstract, both pages are numbered. The page numbers are Arabic numerals and are placed in the upper right corners of the pages of the Abstract, one inch from the right and one inch from the top.

The title of the Abstract and the student's name should be identical in wording and appearance to that on the Title Page. Regarding the author's name, list first name, middle initial(s), and last name. Do not include previously earned degrees (e.g. BA, BS, BSE, MS, MSE, etc.)

The Abstract will be used by readers to determine the content of the Thesis. They will decide whether or not to read the entire publication. The Abstract should contain a precise and well-written summary of the research.

The dedication is optional and follows the title page. The dedication is intended for special recognition of persons, organizations, and/or others who provided particular encouragement and support to the author. The tone is “personal.” The dedication page is centered vertically, is single-spaced, is “flush” with the left margin – no indentations, and should not exceed one page. The Dedication page is not titled, and is expressed in the first line of the text, “To ...” The page number for the dedication is lowercase Roman numeral, centered horizontally, one inch from the bottom of the page.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The acknowledgements, also optional, recognizes persons and institutions that have provided guidance and/or assistance to the author. The tone and focus are “professional” and should not exceed one page. The acknowledgements are double-spaced, and two double-spaces follow the “ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS” title. Margins are 1.5 inches left and top, and one inch right and bottom. The Acknowledgements page number is a lowercase Roman numeral, centered horizontally one inch from the bottom of the page. Acknowledgements follow the dedication, if included, or the title page if there is no dedication.

Chapter I

First Level of Heading

Second Level of Heading

Including a chapter number is optional for the first levels of heading. If you choose not to include a chapter number, the entire first level of heading would remain on the same line. Notice that the second level of heading follows the first level by two hard returns in the double-spaced setting. First levels of heading are bold, centered, begin on a new page, and second levels of heading are bold, aligned left, and only capitalize the first letter of the major words. All second levels of heading should be preceded by two hard returns in the double-space setting.

Third level of heading. Indented, bold, and ends in a period. Only the first letter of the first word is capitalized. The corresponding text begins on the same line as the heading.

Fourth level of heading. Very similar to the third level of heading, but is italicized.

Fifth level of heading. Very few students need all five levels of heading. However, if you need even more levels, please contact the Format Reviewer in the Office of Graduate Studies for further instruction.

Tables

Students should consult the 7th Ed. Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association for information about how format tables and figures.

Microsoft Word has formats for preparing tables. However, the APA table guidelines feature no vertical lines and a minimum of horizontal lines. Therefore, a software's default setting and options for tables may not be appropriate for the purposes of a Thesis.

Formatting Requirements

Dissertations are written by doctoral students, and include an added element of knowledge and rigor than what is expected of a master's thesis. Both require years of research collection and writing, but a thesis also includes professional practice and expertise. Graduate students are trained to strictly follow their discipline's formatting style while writing research papers throughout their graduate career. However, the formatting of a dissertation and thesis is based on publication requirements in addition to the scholarly writing style.

While reading a professional journal, students will notice that the citations may follow APA, Chicago, or MLA style, but the headings, order, and layout might differ. Like scholarly journals who format all articles in the same way for clarity and ease of reading, a Thesis must also follow a formatting style required of all graduate students from a single university. The appearance of the manuscript must follow these guidelines for the research to be published. Publication of a Thesis is a requirement of the doctoral degree at UW Oshkosh.

UW Oshkosh Formatting and APA Differences

Differences between what is outlined in the American Psychological Association (APA) manual and Thesis formatting for publication at UW Oshkosh include but are not limited to manuscript order, preliminary pages, margins, page numbers, running heads, and appendix cover sheets.

Manuscript order. The order of the Thesis is non-negotiable. The first page of the Thesis must be the (1) Abstract, which is immediately followed by the (2) Title Page. A (3) Dedication page and (4) Acknowledgements page may follow, but are both optional. The (5) Table of Contents is required, and would follow the Title Page if no Dedication or Acknowledgments page is included. The (6) List of Tables and (7) List of Figures follow, respectively, and are required only if tables and figures exist within the text.

The (8) text order, itself, may vary depending on discipline, and students are encouraged to discuss the order with their Thesis chair. A common order seen is as follows (and are often their own chapter within the Thesis)

- (a) Introduction explaining the significance to the field, statement of the research problem and research question, purpose of the study, definitions, hypotheses or research questions
- (b) Conceptual framework and literature review
- (c) Methodology design, population samples and setting, demographic data, data collection procedures, and data analysis procedures
- (d) Results and discussion, major themes, and related research
- (e) Summary, conclusion, recommendations

The (9) appendixes follow the text, and the very last piece of the Thesis is the (10) references or bibliography.

Preliminary pages. The organization and structure of the preliminary pages (Abstract, Title Page, Dedication, Acknowledgements,
