Essentials of Effective Case Management

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 2022 • 9 A.M.–1 P.M.

Presented by: Jeanne Wagner, MSW, LCSW, ACSW

Case Management is a widely practiced function across multiple disciplines. Due to diminished organizational resources, many first-time case managers lack the appropriate training to effectively engage with challenging clients. This training is designed to help case managers who work with a variety of client groups improve and/or enhance effectiveness in the provision of client services.

What is Trauma and How Do We Address It as Human Services Clinicians?

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 21, 2022 • 9 A.M.–1 P.M.

Presented by: Sally Hudson, MSW, LCSW

Every day the impact of toxic stress is increasingly evident; whether personal, local, national or global. Trauma significantly affects how people function in major life areas and respond to treatment. This workshop will provide participants with a better understanding of the evolving meaning of trauma and how to address it in clinical practice.

Healing Informed Self-Care for Social Workers and Direct Care Professionals

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 2022 • 9 A.M.–1 P.M.

Presented by: Melinda Marasch, LCSW

The National Association of Social Workers declared that self-care of the professional is vital for competent and ethical direct care practices. Many social workers and other direct care professionals feel the depressed and stressful effects of emerging from the pandemic on ourselves and participants. To help program participants, the helping professional must understand how we are affected by and how we can help mitigate stress, trauma, secondary trauma, burn out and compassion fatigue. It's how we manage these things that counts.
