Academic and Professional Experience:

I have taught the full range of courses in the UW Colleges Political Science curriculum and have also taught a variety of interdisciplinary learning community courses and First Year Experience (LEC 100) courses. I have also taught the introductory class in Women's Studies (GSW 101) and a cross-listed class (POL/GSW 231-Sex, Power, and Public Policy) on a regular basis. In addition, I have guest-lectured in a number of Interdisciplinary courses including Bus 101-Introduction to Business, Zoo 290—Biology and Public Perception of Reproduction and Sexuality, HES 217—Social Aspects of Sports, GSW 101—Introduction to Women's Studies, and WOM/GSW 218—Women and Sport.

**Syllabi and teaching evaluations for any or all courses taught are available on request.

Professional Associations:

American Political Science Association, Midwest Political Science Association

Research:

I have published work on education policy in the U.S. states and a book chapter on LGBTQ+ political activism. Research work and conference presentation has also been done on the subjects of campaign finance, extremist political rhetoric, congressional term limits, the role of political parties in the modern campaign, U.S. immigration policy and enforcement, housing policy and privatization efforts in the Reagan administration, presidential approval and its sensitivity to public mood and salient events, and the decline in public trust in government. I have also focused attention on the scholarship of teaching and learning (SoTL) with an emphasis on high-impact practices including learning communities, effective pedagogy, and service learning.
