

UWO SOCIOLOGY

Student Spotlight

Carly Persson,
Class of 2016
Major: Sociology
Minor: Environmental Studies,
Soc Club President

I became a sociology major back in January 2014 after completing the introductory course. I was hooked after learning that just about everything we do is directly impacted by our membership in society. The sociology program at UWO has helped me grow in a variety of ways, but has most notably helped me to broaden my sociological imagination. I am now able to look outside the confines of my own life and understand how social institutions are affecting those around me. There is a great sense of community within the major, and the professors are fully committed to helping their students succeed. I am particularly interested in the field of environmental sociology, and plan on doing some service work in an underprivileged city for a year prior to my pursuing a graduate, and hopefully doctoral degree.

Member of Alpha Kappa Delta (The International Sociology Honor Society)

Graduation: Spring 2016 (completing degree in 4 years)

Hometown: Marshfield, WI

